Teacher's Comments

Congratulations! You managed to implement a portion of a Natural Language Processing algorithm. Great job for constructing the project's word list, having a straight forward solution and using Node.js to host the web app. Furthermore, the website template is also good. Unfortunately, the project's client web app is not consuming a web service and there is no code implementation for it – you can actually build a RESTful web service with Node.js alone (Search Google). I deducted big points to the specification and functionality components because the web service was not implemented.
